1,114,521		 A detailed photograph of a vintage four-cylinder engine, likely from a motorcycle or small car. The engine features dual carburetors, a central air filter, and various mechanical components like the timing chain, valves, and pistons. It is mounted on a green frame, and a green fuel tank is visible in the background. The engine is shown from a front-three-quarter view, highlighting its intricate mechanical details.	 A small, square thumbnail image of the engine, showing a similar view to the main image but at a much smaller scale. It captures the essential components of the engine, including the carburetors and the green frame.
