Description	On display in the shop
Image	 A large, detailed photograph of a vintage engine, likely a Ford V8, displayed on a black stand. The engine is painted a dark blue-grey color and features various mechanical components, including a carburetor, distributor, and various hoses and wires. A red tag is attached to the side of the engine. In the background, a white wall displays a sign for 'Museum of Power' and a wooden door is visible on the right.
Thumb	 A small thumbnail image of the engine, showing the same details as the main image but at a smaller scale.
