

Images

Objectid	2,925
Description	Start of dismantling
Image	 A photograph showing the start of dismantling a large industrial machine in a workshop. The machine is a complex assembly of metal parts, including a large flywheel and a central shaft. Several people are present: a man in a white shirt is standing near the machine, a man in a red shirt is working on a smaller component, and a man in a blue tank top is in the foreground, looking at the machine. The workshop has a concrete floor and walls, with various tools and equipment visible in the background.
Thumb	 A small thumbnail image of the industrial machine, showing the same scene as the main image but at a smaller scale.