

Images

Objectid	3,294
Description	During removal at Ilkeston
Image	 A photograph showing a large, blue industrial machine, possibly a pump or engine, being removed from a workshop. The machine is mounted on a black metal base. A man in a dark jacket and glasses stands to the left, observing the process. Another man in a red jumpsuit is working on the machine's shaft. A third person, wearing a high-visibility yellow vest, is partially visible in the foreground. The background features a concrete block wall, various pipes, and electrical equipment.
Thumb	 A small thumbnail version of the main image, showing the same scene of the industrial machine being removed in the workshop.