3,458	Being removed from long term home with David Curwen	 A photograph showing two men, one in a black shirt and the other in a grey shirt, working together to move a large, green, vintage-style mechanical device (possibly a pump or engine) from its long-term storage location. The device is mounted on a wooden platform and has a large flywheel. They are outdoors in a grassy area with a blue door and greenery in the background.	 A small thumbnail version of the main image, showing the two men working on the mechanical device.
