

Images

Objectid	4
Description	In-situ Kew 2
Image	 A large, dark, industrial steam engine or boiler, likely a portable engine, mounted on a concrete base. The engine is complex, featuring a large flywheel on the right side, various pipes, valves, and a large cylindrical component on top. The setting appears to be an indoor space, possibly a museum or a workshop, with a window visible in the background.

Thumb

