6	Power Hall 1	 A large, green industrial engine, likely a steam engine, is displayed in a museum hall. The engine is mounted on a white base and has various pipes, valves, and gauges. A green metal railing runs across the foreground, separating the engine from the viewer. In the background, another engine is visible, and a sign on the wall reads "POWER HA 1".	 A small thumbnail image of the same green industrial engine, showing a different angle or a closer view.
