Image	 A photograph of a large industrial steam engine, likely a portable engine, displayed in a museum setting. The engine is dark green and features a prominent, large flywheel with a white protective cage. The brand name "RUSTON" is visible on the side of the engine. The engine is surrounded by various pipes, valves, and a large cylindrical tank. A green metal railing is in the foreground, and a small informational sign is placed on a stand in front of the engine. The background shows a wall with a fire extinguisher and some framed pictures or notices.
